Feb. 7 "Remembering Katrina: Growth Through Adversity," Matt Edwards and Leah Purcell

It has been ten years since the devastating hurricane Katrina hit the gulf coast. Unitarian Universalist congregations were damaged and Unitarian Universalists have pitched in to help ever since. There will be a give-away the plate to support the rebuilding effort.

NOTE: After the service, we'll have gumbo, jambalaya, red beans and rice—finished off with king cake! Stay to celebrate the beginning of Lent in the spirit of Mardi Gras.

Music: Mardi Gras music with Matt Edwards and friends

Feb. 14 "This I Believe"

As Unitarian Universalists, we honor the voices of members of our congregation in their individual search for truth and meaning. This service provides an opportunity to hear the thoughts and reflections on life from three FUUSAns— Cate Bohn, Matt Lesniak, and George Shear

Music: Albany UU choir sings love songs

Feb. 21 "Cultivating Healthy Desire," Rev. Sam Trumbore

Negative, destructive desires give the word a bad connotation. Lust, craving, and avarice are not the only kinds of desires. There are also very healthy desires we need more of in the world.

Music: Guest musician Ann Brandon on piano

Feb. 28 "The Fulfillment of Desire," Rev. Sam Trumbore

Amanda Palmer, Eight-Foot Bride and rock musician, has some innovative, even revolutionary ideas about how to create meaningful community through generosity. Watch her very popular TED talk and/or read her book and come to hear more.

Sam's Outlook

Unhealthy and healthy desire

Rev. Sam Trumbore

I have an unhealthy desire for sugar. Candy corn, a spoonful of honey, fruit jam or sorbet or any concentrated sweet substance touching my tongue sends me into an endorphin enabled rush of pleasure. And one taste sets off a strong craving for more. Even with my stomach aching with fullness, the craving doesn't stop for more.

Unfortunately, excessive sugar consumption has negative physical consequences for my body. Indulging in too much sugar makes my osteoarthritis worse, makes my eczema much worse, and, of course, makes me gain weight. Too much sugar consumption for me is above about 10 grams a day. So to maintain good health, I must monitor and restrict my sugar intake ... which is very hard in a society that encourages sugar consumption at every turn. This is particularly hard as a minister who participates in many social gatherings where hosts and hostesses make delicious desserts they want to share with me.

The way I manage my cravings is by using artificial sweeteners like Sucralose (the yellow artificial sweetener packets). It gives me some of the pleasurable experience of sweetness but without the health problems. Sucralose mostly passes through the digestive system without being absorbed by the body ... but I suspect I may be paying some health cost I don't know about since it hasn't been on the market that long. I feel a little like a methadone user who is trying to avoid heroin. Maybe someday I can wean myself off artificial sweeteners – but unlike heroin, calories from food consumption are necessary for survival so I will continue to encounter sugar in what I eat for the rest of my life.

My problematic relationship with sugar helps me better understand and appreciate the dysfunction of a critical regulatory mechanism of our bodies. Desire is absolutely critical to our survival. If we are too cold, as I was the other day with a biting winter wind in my face, we need to find warmth or face the dangerous prospect of hypothermia or frost bite. Thirst directs us to rehydrate with a glass of water. Hunger to consume nutrition with a plate of food. Loneliness to seek companionship and support. Desire signals to us an imbalance in our homeostasis that needs a correction to bring us back into balance. Without the unconscious signaling process desire provides, our survival would be at risk constantly.

To reinforce this autonomic process and guide it, evolution has developed a powerful method to orient our attention and educate our behavior. When there is an imbalance, the sensation is unpleasant. When the imbalance is addressed, the sensation is pleasant. Quenching an intense thirst with a cold glass of water, stepping out of a blizzard and warming one's hands by a fire, the first forkful of food in the morning after a good workout, a hug of greeting with an old friend, all these experiences are very pleasant and satisfying. Yet these healthy bodily regulatory functions can be easily hijacked by craving for that pleasurable experience disconnected from its autonomic function.

Craving for pleasurable experience and avoidance of unpleasant experience disconnected from one's autonomic function is what the Buddha identified as a primary source of misery imbedded in the human condition. He called it "tanha" and connected it to the existential angst human beings experience facing our finiteness and our insularity, separated from each other inside a bag of skin that eventually becomes dysfunctional and disintegrates. Pleasurable experience helps us forget our condition and unpleasant experience reminds of our existential dilemma.

Thankfully, not all desires devolve into cravings. The Buddha also identified a healthy form of desire he called "chandha." Chandha is the desire to act toward a worthy object with a virtuous purpose. The desire to meditate to alleviate one's own suffering and the suffering of others is described as chandha. The desire to act to offer loving-kindness to other beings, to celebrate their joys and have compassion for their sorrows is chandha. To work ardently to dismantle racism and discourage the use of violence in society is chandha.

News

Report on CSAIs vote

The congregation was polled on Sunday, Jan. 24 regarding the four Congregational Study/Action Issues (CSAIs) proposed to be added to the 2016 General Assembly agenda for four years of study, reflection, and action.

One hundred and three (103) ballots were completed, including one which registered the choices of the four 7th graders in RE (in true UU fashion, they were not of one mind). With regard to the Congregational Study/Action Issues to be brought forth at General Assembly in June:

A National Conversation on Race

Yes: 67 No: 6 Abstaining: about 30 (that is, did not indicate either a yes or a no)

Climate Change and Environmental Justice

Yes: 68 No: 7 Abstaining: about 28

The Corruption of our Democracy

Yes: 64 No: 8 Abstaining: about 31

Ending Gun Violence in America

Yes: 69 No: 8 Abstaining: about 26

Hence, Albany UU will be casting votes for all four to be on the agenda at GA 2016.

Albany UUs were also asked to indicate the issue of deepest concern to them:

The work of ethical responsibility, the cultivation of virtue, and social transformation for the benefit of all beings is chandha work ... mostly. The challenge for us is to discern in our actions whether we are operating from the tanha or the chandha motivation then purifying our purpose. And often it is a confusing mix of both.

This is why I value so highly being part of a religious community dedicated to cultivating chandha in its members and friends. It is the work of a lifetime best done in community for mutual support in this difficult yet worthy endeavor.

And the fruits of the effort are sweet – sweet in a satisfying and fulfilling way rather than a way that stimulates more craving and dissatisfaction.—Rev. Sam

Board notes

Peggy Sherman, President

Thank you to everyone who participated in the congregational meeting to amend the bylaws on January 10. With the changes that we adopted, our Nominating Committee will now select one candidate for each opening on the Board of Trustees and the Endowment Trust. This is the same process used for many years for other positions like President, Vice President, Religious Education Council member and Social Responsibilities Council member. Other adopted bylaws changes will provide some flexibility for the Program Coordinating Council and the Committee on Professional Ministry. Meanwhile, the Board will consider whether additional changes are needed in our organization, and what those changes might be.

Organizational change is taking place in our denomination as well, with the move towards regionalization. At General Assembly, congregational delegates vote on officers, bylaws, and other business of the Unitarian Universalist Association. But in addition to this national process, the UUA congregations were historically organized into 19 districts, each with their own staff, boards, and programs. Now our denomination is moving to a structure of five large regions, with the Southern and Mid America Regions already in place.

Our region is the Central East Region (sometimes known as the Central East Regional Group, or CERG), consisting of our St. Lawrence District and three adjacent districts stretching from Washington DC to New York State to Ohio. The CERG districts have been successfully collaborating for several years, sharing programs and staff. Rev. Joan Van Becelaere is the CERG regional lead as well as Albany UU's primary contact with the UUA. This will continue with regionalization.

But the big change is that there will not be a regional governing board to succeed the four district governing boards. The CERG regionalization plan envisions new vehicles for communication and connections: a new Congregational Life Advisory Council (with Josh Shea of our congregation as one of the eight members) and "Wisdom Seekers" gatherings that are in the planning stage. Clusters of congregations that share an affinity or location, like our own CRUUNY (Capital Region UUs of NY), will also provide an important way for us to collaborate and connect with the UUA

At the St. Lawrence District Assembly on April 2 in Syracuse, delegates from our congregation will vote on authorizing the St. Lawrence District board to dissolve and transfer governance to the UUA. You can read about the regionalization plan on the CERG website at www.cerguua.org/about-us/regionalization.html.

Every organization has to examine its operating model from time to time. What are the processes and structures that will get us to where we want to be, while staying true to our mission and values? How can we spend our time and energy on what is most important? Please contact me if you would like to be involved in these discussions, either by attending the St. Lawrence District Assembly or sharing your ideas for our own congregation.

is requesting $10 scholarship towards the registration fee (not necessary for Albany UU delegates). The fee applies to adults, young adults and youth.

Deadlines:

Online/Advance registration will close on March 15. After that date you may only register on-site.

March 1 is the deadline for children to register for children's activities. The cost is $15 per child.

March 15 is the deadline for Youth Caucus registration. High school aged youth (14-18) are invited to sleep at the First UU Society of Syracuse on Friday evening.

Group rate arrangements have been made at the Crowne Plaza Hotel, 701 E. Genesee St., Syracuse. Reservations: 1.315.470.7000. Rooms will be available until March 1 as long as space is available. Tell them you are part of the St. Lawrence District of the UUA.

District Assembly is a chance for congregational leaders and ministers to meet, network, ask questions, provide input on the direction of the district, and gather resources and information on a variety of topics and programs. The keynote speaker is the Rev. Sue Phillips, and the Gould Discourse will be delivered by the Rev. Margret O’Neill.

Delegates will be asked to vote on: SLD trustees, nominating committee members, district budget for Fiscal Year 2016-17, and most importantly, re-gionalization. Delegates will also review reports from district staff and officers.

Please contact Albany UU President Peggy Sherman (msherman@nycap.rr.com, 439-0064), or Denominational Affairs Liaison Don Odell (drodell31@yahoo.com, 482-4574) as soon as possible to be considered as a delegate, and for further information.

Save the date for a special Sunday!

Once a year we gather with other local UU congregations and worship together. This year we will meet at the Doane Stuart School in Rensselaer. And the date to put on your calendar is Sunday, April 17, 10:30 AM.

Lifespan Learning Event

Join together in the 2016 UU Common Read, Just Mercy: A Story of Justice and Redemption by Bryan Stevensen. The discussion group will be run for three evenings on March 15, 22, 29 at 6:00 pm, with facilitation by Jacqui Williams. Sign up in Channing Hall, or by email to registration@uualbany.org, or contact the church office.

The Lifespan Learning Committee has a limited quantity of the book for sale at a discounted price ($14). Contact the church office, if interested.

Stevenson, founder of the Equal Justice Initiative, has dedicated his legal career to defending those who are trapped by a willfully unjust criminal justice system - poor people, people of color, children, and others over whom the system has run roughshod. His book speaks to justice, mercy, and compassion, themes of concern to us as Unitarian Universalists and as human beings.

The book is designated as this year's Common Read by the UUA. A Common Read invites participants to read and discuss the same book in a given period of time. This activity can build community in our congregations and our movement through a shared experience, shared language, and a basis for deep, meaningful conversations.

Please come join with others to read and discuss this moving and important story!

Three ways to sign up for a class or event:

—Send an email to Registration@AlbanyUU.org

Religious Exploration

The theme of February is desire

Leah Purcell, Director of Religious Education

Hope deferred makes the heart sick, but a desire fulfilled is a tree of life. — Proverbs 13:12 (ESV)

From the Soul Matters Program:

It's a fundamental question about desire: What gets you up in the morning? One can go through their whole life not knowing the answer to that. Routine too easily takes over our lives. Something is wrong when "the alarm clock" is the primary thing that pushes us into the day.

Here is an exercise that asks us to get into relationship with a different source of momentum.

For one week, take 10 minutes at the beginning of your day or at bedtime the night before to identify one thing you want out of the coming day. One thing that you want. In the midst of all the obligations ahead of you, what one desire do you want to make room for? Keep it simple. Maybe it is nothing more than to feel the sun on your face for five minutes. Maybe it is to connect and cook tonight's meal with your daughter. Maybe it is to read or run or just have five minutes of silence. Just make it yours.

Perhaps you'd like a tool to help you spend 10 or even 7 minutes in meditation that can help you identify one thing that you really want.

At my blog you'll find A

Recipe for Meditation for Beginners that I wrote for the theme of Desire. <http://albanyuu.org/wp/dre-blog/2016/01/25/a-recipe-for-meditation-for-beginners-on-desire/> I find food analogies – as well as actual food - to be comforting at this time of year.

We've been using some meditation practices in Sunday school for children of all ages. I think this recipe would be yummy for anyone. Try it with your child, reading the imagery aloud. Your children also might be interested in the Insight meditation timer for your phone or computer. It's the app that I use and so does Rev. Sam and so do some other Albany UUs. So you'd get to see when we're meditating, too.

In peace,

Leah

We will ultimately not be judged by our technology, we won't be judged by our design, we won't be judged by our intellect and reason. Ultimately, you judge the character of a society . . . by how they treat the poor, the condemned, the incarcerated. – Bryan Stevenson

THE COVENANT WITH BLACK AMERICA - TEN YEARS LATER compiled and edited by Tavis Smiley. 2016. [305.896 SMI] In 2006, Tavis Smiley, along with a team of esteemed contributors, laid out a national plan of action to address the 10 most crucial issues facing African Americans. "THE COVENANT" ran the gamut from health care to criminal justice, affordable housing to education, rights to racial divides. But a decade later:

- Black men still fall victim to police bullets and brutality
- Black women still disproportionately die from preventable diseases
- Black children still struggle to gain access to a high-quality education
- The digital divide and environmental inequality persist
- Cities from Ferguson to Baltimore burn with frustration

"THE COVENANT" presents the original action plan alongside new data from the Indiana University School of Public and Environmental Affairs (SPEA) to underscore missed opportunities and the hard work that remains to be done. "All across America, the vicious assault on the civil and human rights of Black people has outraged citizens of conscience, and led to a renewed sense of social protest and political activism," says Tavis Smiley. As we head into another presidential primary election season, will the plight of Black America be ignored yet again? Where does Black America go from here? The book addresses these and other vital questions about the present state of affairs for African Americans.

BETWEEN THE WORLD AND ME by Ta-Nehisi Coates. 2015. [305.8 COA] "...a profound work that pivots from the biggest questions about American history and ideals to the most intimate concerns of a father for his son, Ta-Nehisi Coates offers a powerful new framework for understanding our nation's history and current crisis. Americans have built an empire on the idea of "race," a falsehood that damages us all but falls most heavily on the bodies of black women and men... exploited through slavery and segregation, and, today, threatened, locked up, and murdered out of all proportion. What is it like to inhabit a black body and find a way to live within it? And how can we all honestly reckon with this fraught history and free ourselves from its burden?Ta-Nehisi Coates's attempt to answer these questions in a letter to his adolescent son. Coates shares ...the story of his awakening to the truth about his place in the world through a series of revelatory experiences.... clearly illuminates the past, bravely confronts our present, and offers a transcendent vision for a way forward."

Our Community

The path to membership

Are you wondering about Unitarian Universalism and its role in your life? Or are you thinking about becoming a member of Albany UU and want to understand the process better?

We recommend that all newcomers to Unitarian Universalism, as well as those who are already UU but are new to Albany UU, attend a newcomer orientation. This Saturday morning session will give you an opportunity to learn about Unitarian Universalism and Albany UU, as well as to meet Rev. Trumbore and the Membership Committee.

We invite you to join us Saturday, March 5 for "Getting to Know UU". This orientation is from 8:45 a.m. to noon. We'll start with coffee and snacks and getting to know each other. You'll learn about Unitarian Universalism and about our congregation, and you'll get a chance to ask all the questions you've been collecting. We'll talk about how to get involved in the Albany UU community and about becoming a member. All in all, it's a fun morning of conversation and fellowship, and a pleasant first step on the path to membership!

Childcare is available: please let us know you need it when you register.

To sign up: Send an email to registration@albanyuu.org, call the office at 463-7135, or sign up in Channing Hall. Please indicate if you need childcare.

Earth Spirits

Monday, February 8, 7:00 p.m

With a nod to our 19 Century Universalist history with Spiritualism, Earth Spirits will hold a séance at our next meeting on Monday, February 8, 2016 at 7:00 p.m. This will not, repeat NOT be of the table-rapping, ghostly visitation sort of thing (unless we get very lucky) conducted by a gifted medium. We will do a modified séance taken from contemporary practice that allows everyone to participate, believers and non-believers (most of us) alike. We will approach it as an exercise in active imagination, psychic connection and playful interaction with whatever gets fished up from the depths of our unconscious onto the shores of our awareness. We'll be viewing this catch as either messages from a spirit or psychic messages. We'll talk about the technique first, then do a brief meditation to get in the mood, then cast the circle of protection and open up the circle for play with spirit and psychic communications. For questions, contact Robb Smith robbsmith1@gmail.com or call 518-441-3231. Everyone is invited. Come join us.

Walker Book Club

Join the Walker Book Club for a potluck and discussion on Sunday, February 14, at 5:30 pm in Channing Hall. Newcomers are always welcome and the book club is open to all FUUSA members and friends.

We start with a welcoming shared supper which is followed by a lively discussion of the book of the month. Bring your favorite dish to share and a small contribution to cover beverages.

On Feb. 14, we will discuss Just Mercy: A Story of Justice and Redemption by Bryan Stevenson. This non-fiction, hard-cover book is the 2015-16 UUA

Common Read, which is described by the UUA book store as, "A powerful true story about the potential for mercy to redeem us, and a clarion call to fix our broken system of justice—from one of the most brilliant and influential lawyers of our time." The SRC may still have some copies available for sale at a discount. Contact Karen Kaufman for more information. Also, the UUA book store offers various discounts, depending on the number of books purchased.

March's book is the Liar's Club: A Memoir by Mary Karr. A review by the New York Times says in part, "Mary Karr's attempt to resurrect her parents and her past has seemed an almost overwhelming task. At times, it feels as if the book itself were trying to decide whether it can reasonably contain all that she needs to discover, and all that she needs to let go, in order to become her own creation. (She is a poet and essayist who now teaches at Syracuse University.) Not the least of her assets in this quest is her haunting, often exquisite phrasing of states of being and qualities of mind that resonate long after a page is turned. In the end, it is her toughness of spirit, as well as her poetry, her language, her very voice, that are the agents of rebirth that accompany her on this difficult, hard-earned journey."

Contact Linda Hunt at mailto:lshunt@nycap.rr.com for further information or questions.

UU Humanists

Albany UU Humanists regularly meet on the second Tuesday of the month. The next meeting will be on Tuesday, Feb. 9 at 7 PM in Room B-8 at Albany UU.

At the January meeting six of us discussed what we consider a Humanist service and what are some of the definitions we might use when we describe ourselves as Humanists. There was an impromptu review of the history of Albany UU by some of the long time members. The conversation will continue at the February meeting. One thought is that we might consider spirituality from a Humanist perspective.

For those interested in learning more about Humanism in Unitarian Universalism, please go to the UU Humanists website at <http://huumanists.org>. There is also the American Humanist Association's website at <http://americanhumanist.org>.

If you wish to join the Albany UU Humanists conversations, please go to the Albany UU website (albanyuu.org) and click on Groups and add your name to the Albany UU Humanists. You may also call the Albany UU office (463-7135), or contact Don Odell (odell.don@gmail.com, 482-4574) to be added to the egroup. I will see you on Feb. 9, and around Albany UU on Sunday mornings. -Don Odell

Deaths

All who know former member Sue Walko are saddened to learn of the death of her son, Mark Panthen, 36. Mark and a friend were skiing at Mount Baker in the state of Washington when hit by an avalanche. As they struggled to get free a second avalanche hit; Mark did not survive. Sue's address is available at the office.

We note the passing of former members of the congregation Margaret Griffel and Bob Therriault. Both died in late December. They will be missed.

Dave Stone reports that Lee Landers a 20 year veteran of the Albany Police Department and scout leader for his son, died in January.

Mary Fellows announced that her mother, Alberta Fellows died on December 17th.

Illness

Sigrin Newell had a total shoulder replacement on January 19th. Ouch!

Malcolm Bell reports that his wife Nancy has been in a nursing home since May 2015 when she fell and broke her hip. Nancy welcomes visitors. Please call Malcolm for times and directions.

Accomplishments

Rachel Reed has begun a six month musical therapy internship in Annapolis MD. Her mother, Cathy, is thrilled that Rachel organized this by herself.

Andrew Trumbore completed his last semester at Potsdam University this past fall 2015. His proud parents noted that he finished on the honor role!

After 7 months of recovery at home and 108 days of hospitalization, Peter Meixner has returned to Sunday services with his wife Donna. They are appreciative of all the support they have received from the FUUSA community during this difficult time.

Birthdays

Peter Meixner celebrated his 74th birthday on January 9th!

Lorraine English's mother, Christina Josephina Barne Blanchfield Lennon turned 90 on Christmas Day. Lorraine is happy to report that her mother is happy and healthy!

Willa Metzger turned 2 on January 2nd!

Births

Peter and Donna Meixner have a new granddaughter, Marcella Meixner Biazo.

Reunions

Julie Lomoe was elated to spend Christmas dinner with her daughter, grandchildren and extended family in Woodstock, NY. She also is excited to reconnect with a relative in Norway.

Transitions

Ann D'Attilio is also saddened by the decision of The College of Saint Rose to eliminate faculty, staff, and administration positions and academic programs which had few or no students enrolled in them. However, if The College does not take measures such as these, in a few years there will be no College and hundreds of jobs will be lost, thousands of students will lose the opportunity to receive a quality education, and the Albany community will suffer from the loss also.

If you need the services of the Caring Network, please call the office during regular hours at 463-7135.

Items of personal joy or caring may be submitted during the service on the yellow cards provided, or directly to Mary Ann Randall (mabrandall@gmail.com.)

Social Justice

Social Responsibilities Council news

SRC would like to give a great big cheer for the wonderful generosity of Albany UUs who donated to the Sheridan Preparatory Academy Playground Project Give-Away-the-Plate back in the fall and to subsequent donations. Thank you! The total is close to $12,000! Martha Musser has been busy writing grants to secure more funding, in anticipation of having $25,000 by the end of June to purchase new playground surfacing material and additional fencing so that by mid-July, construction can begin, using volunteer manual labor (hint, hint). If all goes well, November 2016 could be the month we celebrate the completion of the SPA playground! We'll keep you informed as we progress. Any ideas for funding possibilities are very much welcomed. You can notify Martha Musser, Lois Griffin, or Jean Poppei.

SRC also wants to remind all readers that Bryan Stevenson's Just Mercy, the UUA Common Read, will be discussed at the Walker Book Club potluck/discussion 5:30p FUUSA, February 14.

The January 9th event with Rev. Julie Taylor was a great success, bringing in members of the larger community as well as members of the Albany UU community. Those who were able to attend found it: "inspiring," "thought-provoking," and "knowledge-building." Thanks to all who helped bring it about—a special note of appreciation to Ed Hancock, Karen Kaufmann, Patty Burch, and Peggy Sherman. Now it's time to plan our next steps to further Black Lives Matter.

Empty Bowl— working together to end hunger

Your attendance will help support the service and advocacy of FOCUS churches of Albany and the Hunger Action Network of New York State.

Any questions? Feel free to contact Patty Burch (patty.burch@gmail.com or 518-512-3273).

Black Lives Matter Taskforce

Next meeting: Sunday, Feb. 14 at 11:45

Saturday, January 9 Albany UU hosted the presentation: Ferguson and Beyond. The turn out was excellent with about half to two-thirds of the attendees from outside our congregation including people from as far as Oneonta. Rev. Julie Taylor vividly presented the situation in Ferguson and the area. Jacqui Williams and Colin Donnaruma powerfully presented perspectives on the Dontay Ivy, Eric Garner and overall issues. Musicians Tiani Asili and Blue Wilder contributed the power of song to the spirit of the night. It is clear that AlbanyUU and the broader community is concerned people of color and that we are committed to ending the disregard commonly shown for Black Lives in so many everyday ways. During the coming legislative year we hope to achieve progress against the school to prison pipeline; against the all-to-frequent ending of lives of people of color who are several times more likely to be killed by police than white people are; and to continue the struggle for true equality in all aspects of life. Bills are being introduced in the legislature to address police actions which result in death. As grand juries routinely issue indictments when recommended by prosecutors, it is apparent that the prosecutors in Albany and Staten Island did not actively pursue indictments from grand juries in the Ivy and Garner deaths brought on by aggressive and racially motivated police behavior. While it is true that police also kill unarmed non criminal white people, black men are about 5 times more likely to be killed. Typically no one, not the officers, not the people in charge are disciplined. In the Garner case, Sgt. Kizzy Adonis, a black woman sergeant not assigned to the area but who came to assist has been stripped of her gun and badge in an internal investigation. A witness reported that she said to officers holding Garner down to “let up, you got him already”. Her words were ignored, but she is being disciplined, perhaps fired. Sgt Adonis' situation is still unfolding.

At a future date, SRC will welcome an Albany police and community conversation at Albany UU on community policing.

Robb Smith, through Interfaith Impact, will carry our concerns and advocacy for constructive change to members of the legislature. There is room for more Albany sUUs to accompany Robb on advocacy day later this year. Hint!-Ed Hancock

Peace Team news

Showing love to our Muslim neighbors:

Following the terror attack in Paris and the subsequent attack in San Bernardino anti Muslim attacks have increased to levels not seen since immediately after the World Trade Center attack. In anticipation of local Islamophobia a meeting was held at the mosque Masjid -As-Salaam. Attendees from area peace and religious groups spoke about what motivated to attend and their concerns. Stories were shared of local people being threatened at school and at work by people hostile to Muslim looking people.

Subsequent meetings were scheduled for those who signed up for additional participation. Three work groups were developed, first for political positions, second consider a response in the event of a local incident, and third an education group to consider countering misinformation.

The political action group drafted proposals for the City of Albany Common Council and for the Albany County Legislature. To their credit both organizations adopted resolutions supporting our Muslim neighbors. I and other AlbanyUUs were present to see Lynne Lekakis sworn in as a county legislator and to witness the approval of the proclamation supporting our Muslim neighbors. It was heart-warming to see the gesture of welcome to the threatened Muslim members of our community.

Educational programming component of opposing islamophobia is a challenge. Throughout the world there are about 1.2 billion people of Islamic faith, and there are a few who are motivated to lose their lives attacking American and other people. Our media always includes the religion of the attackers thus associating all members of the faith with the attacks. This association is not made in the media when Roman Catholic members of the Irish Republican Army attacked pubs and police stations with bombs to kill protestant and British people in Ireland and Britain. Years ago, it used to be common practice in the media to mention the race of a wanted criminal when the perp was of African ancestry. Protests and sensitivity training has diminished this practice, but for Muslims there is a long way to go. Just as the film “Birth of a Nation” inflamed racism in America in the 20's, many films and TV shows focus on the Islamic theme uniting the bad guys and some people see anyone with a dark beard, head scarf, middle eastern clothing as allies of terrorists.

As an educational action people are standing on street corners witnessing their support of our Muslim friends and neighbors.

On January 11 on behalf of FUUSA/SRC I joined a group of peace people consisting of Bethlehem Neighbors for Peace, Grannies for Peace, and other area peace folks gathered at the four cornerS in Delmar with signs supporting our Muslim neighbors and condemning Islamophobia. While many drivers were supportive, a few expressed their disagreement with middle fingers and shouts, a display of hostility I had not seen in my street actions for Black Lives Matter.

On February 13, as a vigil to Valentines day, the Grannies for Peace will take a stand on the side of love at Central Avenue and Wolf Road supporting Muslim neighbors and opposing Islamophobia.

UUA GENERAL ASSEMBLY

General Assembly is the annual meeting of our Unitarian Universalist Association. Attendees worship, witness, learn, connect, and make policy for the Association through democratic process. Anyone may attend; congregations must certify annually to send voting delegates. The 2016 General Assembly will be June 22-26 in Columbus, OH. Most General Assembly events will be held in the Greater Columbus Convention Center.

Theme for 2016 GA: “Heart Land: Where Faiths Connect”

The religious landscape is increasingly multifaith. Across the globe, people are crossing borders of religion and spiritual practice to create wholeness in their lives individually and collectively. The labels—Christian, Jew, Muslim, Buddhist, Hindu, humanist, theist and non-theist—are no longer the primary way we define how religion, spirituality, faith, and practice come together. In our quest to bring more love and justice into the world, we find ourselves in partnership with people following different religious and spiritual paths. The richness of those encounters deepens our faith, strengthens our work for justice, and encourages connections with those who are “spiritual but not religious.” General Assembly 2016 in Columbus, Ohio, will invite us to explore how to be in authentic and fruitful interfaith partnerships, both within and beyond the congregation. We’ll assemble leaders and communities of many faiths to worship together and learn from one another. We will explore what grounding and vision we share across faith traditions, and what particularities of each tradition lend creativity and depth to our work across faith borders. Together, we will move toward a new interdependent vision of faith that responds to the needs of our own time and points us toward the future.

How are we crossing faith borders as we bring more love and justice into the world?

General Assembly will offer about 200 programming choices over the 5 days of GA.
