

You've got another chance to see

“The Throwaways”

FUUSA is proud to sponsor a screening of the newly re-edited version of The Throwaways, Ira McKinley's groundbreaking film, on Thursday, Aug. 22 at 7 PM at Emerson Community Hall. Dr. Michelle Alexander, author of The New Jim Crow which was the UUA Congregational Read for 2012-13, said this about Ira's film:

"The Throwaways courageously explores the most pressing racial justice issue of our time: the mass incarceration of poor people of color. . . . The devastating consequences for individuals, families, entire communities -- indeed our nation as a whole -- are difficult to overstate, and The Throwaways dares to ask the questions that most policymakers have been content to ignore."

Following the screening, Ira will moderate a forum that will include Naomi Jaffe, founder of NYS Prison Justice Network, and Darryl Johnson, Coordinator at Albany's Center for Law and Justice. Please plan to attend this important event and spread the word to your friends and neighbors!
